Foreign Items. Postmaster-General Holt, in his annual report, argues that the Post-Office Department should be self-sustaining. This is nonsense. The Secretary of the Navy might as well argue that the Navy Department should sustain itself by fishing and whaling, and transporting coal, as Mr. Helt that the mail service should pay all its own cost. The New York Express reports that one hundred and three persons were murdered in the city of New York during the past year, either by their own hands or the hands of others. The police arrested 68,890 persons for offences against the laws, and of this great number only 8754 were brought to trial in the criminal court, and only 3973 were convicted and punished. A countryman, in the United States, not long since, received a lot of greasy bills in payment for produce. He attempted to clean them by using a solution of potash, which extracted the signatures. To make them as good as new, he re-wrote the names, and in attempting to pass them was arrested for counterfeiting. After considerable explanation of the circumstances, to his great relief, he was set at liberty.

A short time since, a citizen of Haverhill. Mass., in good circumstances, was committed to jail for refusing to pay his taxes. A notorious ruffian, known in southwestern Arkansas as Jack Cade, was recently killed by a woman whose husband he had shot. The widow challenged him to fight a duel, and as the ruffian declined she attacked him with a revolver and lodged three balls in his body, one of which passed through his heart. The Troy papers chronicle the marriage of Frank B. Converse, of the Campbell Minstrels, with a young widow, Mrs. Hattie A. Clark, youngest daughter of Thomas Maxwell, Esq., of Elmira. The lady in question accepted the offer of a wealthy New York gentleman about three years since, and lived in the enjoyment of unalloyed connubial happiness until some three months ago, when her husband died, leaving her sole heiress to the snug little sum of $150,000, and "nary" responsibility. The widow returned home to her parents and soon thither hied the wandering minstrel, and sought an interview, the effect of which was magical. Divining the object of his visits, the family and friends of the widow forbade him their houses, and what interviews they subsequently obtained were secret and stolen, but none the less sweet or romantic. In fact, from opposition the lovers became desperate, and an elopement by the practice of a little stratagem was determined upon, although the " vidder" declared she was her own mistress, even if her majority were not yet attained, her parents having once given her away in marriage. However, " to keep peace in the family," a stratagem was resorted to, which was successful in enabling the lady to meet her lover at Tory, and consummate A SPIRITUAL MARRIAGE -The Boston Traveler tells the story of the marriage of a dentist of that city with a lady medium, his wonderful matrimonial experience, and the ultimate dissolution of that affinity after eighteen months. The dentist was introduced some two years ago to a lady whose husband had deserted her and gone to Kansas, since which she had taken up the profession of spiritual mediumship. She was fair and attractive, and admiration of her spiritual gifts combined with her charms to captivate the bachelor's heart. Besides, the spirits told them they were made for each other, and they were willingly obedient to the heavenly vision. They were married, but the honey-moon had hardly begun when the wife became subject to strange trances, during which she would pull her husband's hair, scratch him, and otherwise violently belabor him, most commonly when he was in bed and exposed and defenceless. When she was aroused from the trunce she was full of regets at what had transpired. At the bidding of the spirits he took her with him to Texas, where she proclaimed him an Abolitionist, and he narrowly escaped violence at the hands of the mob. When they got back, the spiritual persecutions continuing, and the poor husband finding that his sufferings of mind, body and estate were greater than he could bear, suggested a separation, and obtained it by paying handsomely. After the separation the woman confessed that she had imposed upon him throughout, that her trances were feigned, that she beat and scratched him because she wanted to, and that all the spiritual messages he had received were of her own manufacture. The dentist has had an experience hard enough to make him wise, but he still believes in spiritualism, only he thinks the devil must be

NEW CALEDONIA .- The news received at Port de France by the Brilliant of the flight of Capt. Paddon in a wholeboat, had caused a good deal of astonishment. It is supposed that some designing parties must have frightened him by the most absurd reports, as his life and his property were as safe at Port de France as they could have been in Sydney. His departure has been much regretted by his friends, while it has furnished his enemies with an argument against him. The greatest harmony and good feeling continues to reign at Port de France between the French and English population. All the southern part of New Caledonia, from St. Vincent and Kanala down to the Isle of .. Pines, can be explored by any one, unarmed and in perfect security. The French, German, and English settlers are busy in every direction, clearing and cultivating their lands, and New Caledonia promises to export, in a very short time, maize, sugar, coffee, cotton, &c. The cattle, horses and sheep which have been lately imported from Sydney are in a thriving condition, and increase rapidly. Since the return of the Governor from the north-east coast, Port de France is all bustle and activity, Government works and private buildings are progressing as fast as the want of labour, which is seriously felt, will allow them to do. The railway brought from Sydney by the Thisbe has been laid down, and about fifty natives are employed upon it, filling up the swamp in the middle of the town and making the streets; while on the other side of the bay, the artillery barracks, several private dwellings, and the new civil and military hospital will, for some time to come, absorb all the beach a handsome square has been laid out, having on one side the new post-office and the engineer's department. A regular mail service, once a week, has been established, via Port St. Vincent, overland to Kamala, which opens a direct communication with the north-east coast, where the natives are still hostile to the Europeans. On the 15th October, a Frenchman, called Capron, ventured (in defiance to the strict orders to the contrary which had been issued by the Governor) to approach in a whale-' out the coast of Yenghen. His boat was attacked and taken by the natives, and he and his crew murdered and eaten. It is supposed that as soon as the troops which are expected from France bave arrived, a second expedition to Yengben will be undertaken, against the natives of Yenghen, to avenge the murder of Capron and ed to Mr C. his unfortunate crew .- Correspondent Sydney Her-
